

An appreciation post.

Alison Fox | Senior Advisor
Phacelift Consulting Services

It is true that I love my line of work as I get to work alongside diverse teams. So, to the people that I have worked with, this is for you.

To the kindest of leaders, this is for you.

To the one who took a chance on me, this is for you.

To the one who showed me how to listen to the silence, this is for you.

To the one who never stopped believing, this is for you.

To the one who held me up when I started to fall apart, this is for you.

To the one who encouraged me when the knees were getting weak, this is for you.

To the one who taught me resilience is from within, this is for you.

To the one who displayed unconditional patience, this is for you.

To the one who taught me that success is the legacy you leave, this is for you.

To the greatest of mentors, this is for you.

I thank you, for being you.

~

About Alison Fox

Alison has worked across a diverse range of customer centric organisations, with a strong focus on customer engagement, organisational development and design. During her career, she has worked across a variety of creative and corporate organizational development assignments in both public and private sectors, focusing on frontline management, business management and leadership.

Alison's background in design and management has enabled her to lead teams of researchers, designers and operators to develop new stakeholder engagement processes across government organisations. Providing seamless customer interactions, communication strategies and staff processes, she collaborates with organisations to deliver concise information based on customer and stakeholder requirements.

About Phacelift

Phacelift specialises in providing advice on good business practice. For more information please visit our website: www.phacelift.com.au

Version History

Version	Date of publication	Comments
V01	28/06/2021	First Public Release

Disclaimer

This article is available for public distribution without charge. Parts can be reproduced for personal use as covered in relevant copyright legislation. No part can be reproduced for commercial purposes without the express consent of Phacelift.

For points of clarification regarding this article or to comment on its content please email the author at alison.fox@phacelift.com.au or Phacelift directly at library@phacelift.com.au.

To download further articles please visit our website: www.phacelift.com.au/library